

Here to Serve Fund applications are due by November 30!

The Heartland Technology Here to Serve Fund was created last year to empower shareholders to influence the fund's direction while giving local organizations who do great things in our community an opportunity to apply for funding. Pictured above were last year's recipients.

This year the $7,500 fund will be dispersed amongst two non-profits. To qualify for the fund, organizations must be a registered 501c, must fall into one of three categories: Charitable, Youth Programs, and Education.

Once the organizations are selected, they will be included on the annual board member voting ballot mailed to all shareholders in February or March. Each shareholder will have one written vote to choose the organization they believe should receive funding. Voting will conclude at the Annual Meeting, and the results will be announced one week afterward. Non-profits will receive a percentage of the total funds based on the votes they receive. For example, if Organization A secures 53% of the votes, they will receive 53% of the total fund. This approach ensures that funding is distributed in proportion to shareholder support for each organization.

Applications are due by November 30! Click the button below to apply.

CoWork591 has been rebranded!

We have rebranded one of our businesses, CoWork591, to Heartland Technology Business & Event Center to better convey the services we offer at that location and the connection to us. For more information, you can read our press release here.

Jtt.net Email Service Cancellation Notice

Effective February 1, 2026, we will no longer offer jtt.net email service. Other web-based email services such as Gmail and Yahoo have evolved over the years making their platforms extremely user friendly with generous free storage, strong security features, organizational tools, and more - all features our jtt.net email lacks. Because these features are outside of our control, particularly when it comes to security, we no longer feel confident continuing to provide this service.

We have created some tutorials to help set up auto-replies, forwarding, transferring data over to your new email, and more. These can be found on our website here.

We have scheduled another Tech Talks where we will go over some of the guides we created and answer questions on Wednesday, November 12 at 6 p.m. at Heartland Technology Business & Event Center (formally CoWork591), located at 591 Young Street here in Jesup.

Reminder, once you created a new email address, please contact us to update your email address with us or fill out this form here to update it.
